This event is presented in conjunction with courses 4.381/4.366 Give me Shelter: The Conditions of Living in Unstable Times, taught by Professor Ute Meta Bauer and 4.370/4.371 Give me Shelter: Body Wear, taught by Visiting Associate Prof. Regina Moeller.

Miessen will discuss a recent project "The Violence of Participation" that is currently installed at the Lyon Biennial, place it in the context of further work he has recently been involved in, and will discuss whether alternative institutional models can provide an autonomous asylum for discourses that go beyond the consensual.

Markus Miessen is a London-based architect and writer, editor of "The Violence of Participation" (Sternberg Press, 2007), co-editor of "With/Without – Spatial Products, Practices and Politics in the Middle East" (Bidoun, 2007, with Basar and Carver), "Did Someone Say Participate? An Atlas of Spatial Practice" (MIT Press, 2006, with Basar), and co-author of "Spaces of Uncertainty" (Müller+Busmann, 2002, with Cupers). In 2002, he set up Studio Miessen, an agency for spatial strategy and critical cultural analysis. He acts as a spatial consultant to the European Kunsthalle, Serpentine Gallery, and the London-based think tank Demos. As Unit Master, he teaches at the Architectural Association. In 2008, he will direct the first AA Winter School in Dubai, in collaboration with the American University in Sharjah. He has been a visiting lecturer at Columbia University, the Royal College of Art, and the University of Stuttgart, and is currently a Doctoral candidate at the Centre for Research Architecture at Goldsmiths, investigating conflict- and non-consensus-based forms of participation as a form of alternative spatial practice.
